Axis – Zipstream Technology Store more video on less memory

Zipstream allows you to store more video on less memory by implementing a more efficient H.264 format, which in many cases can reduce bandwidth and storage requirements by 50% or more. Zipstream analyzes & optimizes the network cameras in real-time by recording (in full image quality) scenes with details & motion while other areas are filtered out, thereby recording only the info you need, thus reducing storage requirements.
